Wilhelm's Ministry Figuring Their Gains.

They Count on the General Alarm to Defeat the Socialists.

Clerical Leaders Issue a Manifest to the Catholics.

The Government Will Open the Reich od Support-Bourse Speculators-Herbert Bismarck Elected by the Agrarians

By Telegraph to The Times BERLIN, June 18.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) The election returns were virtually completed this afternoon, reports from one district only being lacking. Revision of the returns may necessitate a few alterations, but they will be rivial. The turns may necessitate a few altera-tions, but they will be trivial. The candidates elected number 215. Of these 101 will vote for the Army Bill and 114 against it. In the following list of parties the Anti-Semitic Conservatives are included with the Conservatives, and the cluded with the Conservatives, and the Independents are treated as members of the parties with which they affili-ated in the Reichstag: Lieber Cleri-cals, 68; Social Democrats, 29; Conserv-atives and Agrarians, 44; National Liberals, 18; Radical Unionists who favor the bill, 4; Poles, 12; Free Conserva-fives, 10; Clericals favorable to the bill. 11; Alsatians, 7; South German Demo-crats, 4; Anti-Semitic, 3 (2 favoring the bill.) Bavarian Agrarians, 2; Gueiphs 1; Danes, 1; Bavarian Separatists, 1;

1; Danes, 1; Bavarian Separatists, 1; Reichterists, none.
Among the candidates on 181 new ballots will be 10 Poles, 52 Conservatives, 9 Agrarians, 7 Free Conservatives, 72 National Liberals, 30 Clericals, 77 Social Democrats, 11 Radical Unionists, 35 Reichterists, 16 Anti-Semitic, and 8 Guelphs. As expected, the latest returns increased steadily the list of members upon whom the government can rely for support.
While the victories of the Social Democrats are regarded with alarm, their immediate effect upon the fate of the Army Bill will be more than offset by the losses of Richter Radicals. After four hours conference yesterday, the the Army Bill will be more than offset by the losses of Richter Radicals. After four hours conference yesterday, the ministers, who met the Chancellor to discuss the results of the election, decided that, in view of the recent returns, it would be superfluous and inexpedient to issue an appeal to the country before the second ballots. A great majority of the ministers are confident they can secure a large number of seats at the second ballots from the Richterists and Clericals. They depend upon the general alarm excited by the Social Democratic victories to drive the Clericals and opposition Clericals into the government camp in constituencies where the contests are between the Conservatives or National Liberal candidates and Socialists.

If expectations are realized, not only will the convent and content and the content are realized, not only will the convent and content and content are realized, not only will the convent and content and content are realized.

didates and Socialists.

If expectations are realized, not only will the government open the Reichstag with almost half the members on its side, but also will be enabled at the final poll to keep the Social Democrats down to a total of forty or forty-five seats. That the ministerial expectations of a general combination against the Socialists are not entirely underground, is shown by the action of the Clerical leaders. The Socialist scare has become so general that the leaders have sent out a letter calculated to solidify the Catholic vote against the Social Democratic candidates, even in cases where such a course will lead to the election of Conservatives or National Liberals.

Speculators on the Bourse took a tional Liberals.

Speculators on the Bourse took a sanguine view of the government prospects in the second ballots. Imperial and Russian stocks, which weakened on Friday, were strong yesterday in consequence of reports that the government would have a small majority at the opening of the Reichstag. Count Herbert Bismarck, who was elected by the content of the results of the second of the sec the Agrarians in Jerichow district, received 11,669 votes, to 6848 cast for Ferdinand Woellmer, Radical, who was the last member for the district. Gloecke, the Social Democratic candidate, received 4431 votes. Count Herbert's majority over all is therefore 480.

Army Bill Will Pass LONDON, June 18.—The Berlin cor-respondent of the Daily News says: "There cannot be the slightest doubt but that the Army Bill will be passed with a good majority." The Standard's Berlin correspondent expresses the same opinion, but somewhat less em-same opinion phatically. Pope's Folly Island. WASHINGTON, June 18 -- Prof. T C. Mendenhall, on the part of the United States, and Commissioner King, on the part of Great Britain, will shortly determine the vexed question shortly determine the vexed question as to the legal ownership of Pope's Folly Island, off the coast of Maine, near the international boundary. In view of Mendenhall's discovery that the island, according to the first chart of Great Britain, was conceded to the United States, he believes he will have no trouble in settling the question in favor of this country. When this is settled the only other important matter between the two countries is the determination of the boundary line between Alaska and the British possession.

determination of the boundary line be-tween Alaska and the British posses-sions. The party which left here in March last has been unable to accom-plish much, and it is not believed the boundary line will be marked for a year because of unfavorable weather. LONDON, June 18. — Several anti-Parnellite members of Commons have received complaints from their constit uents for not opposing the government concessions to the Unionists in the de-bate on the Home-rule Bill. The Pai nellites intimated to the ministry that they will withdrew from the House is the event of further concessions being made. Sexton's supporters are disposed to take similar action. The followers of Healy are in favor of adhering to the government.

Homage to Bismarck.

BERLIN, June 18.—Thirty-five hundred Mecklenburgers and 5000 Hamburgers went to Friedrichsruhe today to pay homage to Prince Bismarck. The Prince made a long speech, alluding to the battle of Waterloo and the part which Germany took in it. He appeared hale and hearty, and was enthusiastically cheered.

Carnot Better. PARIS, June 18.—President Carnot is eported as decidedly better today. BIG BLAZE AT CHICAGO.

Six-story Building Destroyed With Nuch Loss, Nuch Loss.

CHICAGO, June 18.—(By the Associated Press.) A six-story building at Wabash avenue and Congress street was entirely destroyed by fire today. The structure was occupied by a number of firms, whose combined losses aggregate $300,000.

The heaviest losers are: O. W. Richardson Company, carpets and curtains; Ginn Publishing Company, Vose Piano Company, and Chase & Co., piano man-ompany, and Chase & Co., piano man Company, and Chase & Co., piano manufacturers; R. S. Peal & Co., publishers. The building was valued at $15,000, and was owned by John Quincy Adams of Wheaton, Ill. The fire was started by the crossing of electric wires, and spread with such rapidity that the firemen were unable to check it, and confined their efforts to saving the adjoining buildings, notably Siegel, Cooper & Co.'s store. By desperate efforts the flames were confined to the Adams building.

Conjecture as to the Outcome of the Borden Case.

Acquittal or a Disagreement and Nolle Prosequi Looked for-Story of a Strange Young :Man-Saturday's Trial.

NEW BEDFORD (Mass...) June 18 .-(By the Associated Press.) The work of preparation among the counsel in the Borden case was going on all day. The consensus of opinion is that Miss Borden will be acquitted in short order, or that the jury will disagree. In the former event, it is understood, there will be no jubilation, but that she will retire quietly from the scene of so much unpleasantness as quickly as possible. In the latter event there may come a new trial, or a case of nolle prosequi later on, she being allowed to go on her own recognizance, provided her counsel stands in the breach. The arguments will probably take all day Monday, and the charge to the jury will be given on Tuesday morning.

SUSPICION DIVERTED.

Felix Borden May Know Something of the Murder. NEW YORK, June 18.—(By the Associated Press.) A World's Baltimore special says that Mrs. Ramsey, who keeps a boarding-house, relates a story that, previous to the Borden murder, a New England boy, who represented himself as Felix Borden, the adopted son of Lizzie Borden's uncle, boarded with her. He did not pay his boardbill, and left, saying he was going to bill, and left. saying he was going to his home in Massachusetts to get money to settle with. A few days after he left the Borden murders were committed. He returned to Baltimore, and Mrs. Ramsey spoke about the murders. He replied: "Oh. Lizzle did it." His description, it is said, tallies with that given by witnesses, who testified they saw a strange young man at the gate of the Borden house on the morning of since.

MRS. LUX SUES.

She Wants a Partition of the Immens SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.-(By the ssociated Press.) Mrs. Lux, the widow of the junior partner of the great cattle and land firm of Miller & Lux, has sued Henry Miller, the surviving part-ner, for a partition of the estate and an accounting of its administration. Since the death of Lux, several years ago, Mrs. Lux declares that the partner-ship has not been managed to the sat-isfaction of the heirs. Several times there have been evidences of difference of opinion, but it was only recently that the breach became open. The Miller & Lux property extends from Arizona to Oregon, and is worth millions.

By Telegraph to The Times. ASHLAND (Wis.,) June 18 .- (By the Associated Press.) Iron River, a thrivng lumber town of over two thousand population, twenty-five miles from Ashland, is in flames, and is likely to be entirely wiped out. The fire caught on the outskirts of the village from forest fires, destroying the new schoolhouse, Congregational and Catholic churches and Hessey & Hatton's big ware-house. At 6 o'clock the entire resi-dence portion of the city was in flames. Help was sent for here, but the special jumped the track, causing severel hours

delay. Forest fires are raging all through Northern Wisconsin. Today the town of Washburn had a close shave, and the fire made a heavy sweep in and about White River. It is likely to burn millions of feet of stand ng pine. Ouly a year ago Iron Rive vas entirely destroyed by fire. Severa was entirely destroyed by fire. Several people were brought to Ashland tonight who were badly injured, narrowly escaping with their lives. The latest advices from Iron River state that the town is gone. Wires on the Northern Pacific and Omaha are all down, poles being burned away by the fires. A bad fire is raging in North York. A special was sent out this evening to fight flames and to save trestles and bridges along the railroads.

DULUTH (Minn.,) June 18 .- (By the Associated Press.) The towns of Vir-ginia and Mountain Iron, on the Du-luth, Mesaba and Northern road, have been destroyed by forest fires, and Mes-been destroyed by forest fires, and Mesaba and Blwablk on the Duluth and Iron Range have also been visited by serious fires, and Tower had a like experience. There are 2000 people homeless in Virginia and without food or shelter, every provision depot and its contents in the place being destroyed. Women and children are housed in box cars, but have nothing to eat, and no engine there to move them. The situation at Mountain Iron is little better. As soon as the news of these facts reached Duluth, arrangeogenits were begun to send relief to the destressed, the Duluth, Mesaba and Northern getting a special together to be started as soon as possible. All restaurants and hotels are preparing food to be sent to the sufferers, and tents are being collected. It is feared the fatalities will be numerous.

OVER ONE MILLION. Feared Many Towns Have Beer Burned.

ST. PAUL (Minn.,) June 18 .- [By the associated Press. | There are many mining camps employing a large num ber of men in the neighborhood of Vir ginia, and they are undoubtedly burned. Among these were Mountain Iron, New England, Rouchteau, Lone Jack and Poca mines. All these camps had large storehouses. It is feared some men may have perished in the flames. It is difficult to estimate the total loss, if reports be true as to the extent the destruction mentioned it will amount to over $1,000,000.

The racing public must not imagine, however, that the disabling of the horses named will make the Suburban a certainty for Lamplighter, as Lorillard's champion carries 129 pounds and meets such dandy horses as Banquet, Charade Or Hastouck Mars. The Charade, Dr. Hasbrouck, Mars, The Pepper and Lowlander. Everybody ad-Pepper and Lowlander. Everybody admits that Banquet will be Lamplighter's most dangerous opponent. Some think that Charade has a chance, but others maintain that the distance is a furlong too far for him. There always has been the gravest doubt as to Dr. Hasbrouck's staying powers. The same is true as to Lowlander. Morris's representative Mars is dead game, and in the race is at weight that will enable him to be in the front rank from seart to finish.

CHICAGO, June 18.—(By the Associated Press.) There was no wild rush to the White City today, and the sun indicated almost the noon hour before the crowd began to pour in at the gates, In makeup it differed little from those of previous Sundays. Workingmen, many with their wives, families or sweethearts, took solid comfort in the wondrous sights before them. If any one imglines the wageworker does not appreciate fine paintings and works of art, he should see the multitude of artisans that lingered in the halls of the Fine Arts building throughout the afternoon and far into the evening. The exposition buildings themselves are not the places most patronized, for the wonders' of Midway Plaisance drew even a larger crowd. Ferris's wheel attracted great attention, and a captive balloon carried a full quota each trip. Ferris's wheel is to be formally opened to the public next Wednesday with great ceremony.

Today's admissions to the fair numbered almost seventy-five thousand, comprising 54,582 adults, 3094 children, and 16,836 officials and employees.

For the first time in the recent history of the Hawaiian Islands the Hawaiian national fiag was floated over the palace on June 2. The formal over the palace on June 2. The forma occupation of the palace by the provis ional government, and the raising of the national emblem over it, are re-garded by the annexationists generally, and by many of the natives, as a final blow to the monarchy. The building was formally dedicated to its new uses on June 5, with some ceremony in which the troops, the government and other officials participated. On June 3 other officials participated. On June the government paid to Claus Spreckel $95,000 owed to him and the control of the control owed to him, and there is a feel ing of relief among the officials that the government is no longer under obliga-tions to him. Spreckels denies that he was actuated by a desire to embarrass tions to him. Spreekes defines that he was actuated by a desire to embarrass the government by demanding the return of the money loaned by him. He says it was merely a business transaction: the debt was overdue and he wanted his money.

Minister Blount is anxious to return home, and both the royalists and the annexationists would be glad to have the question settled one way or the other. The idea of a protectorate is still in favor with the annexationists. The provisional government has passed a law giving the Attorney-General discretionary powers in admitting to bail persons charged with murder, treason or seditious offenses. Heretofore all offenses have been bailable, and this law is considered to be a further precaution on the part of the government to prevent conspiracies and to shut off the royalist and native—newspapers from too severely criticising the government.

A GREAT GAME.

"Spitless Willie" Surprises the Natives.

Likewise, the Colonel and All His Doughty Men.

The Angels Back Nicol With Superb Fielding.

Nine Bases Purloined by the Home Play ers, While Oakland Couldn't Consummate a Single Steal— The Games North.

Some people may be hard to please. but no one who saw yesterday's ball game at Athletic Park has any reason to complain. Of course Col. Gieschen and his reorganized strikers were dissatisfied, but that was in the nature of things. Defeat and dissatisfaction are often synonymous terms, and the fellow who gets the worst of a fight rarely has who gets the worst of a nght rarely has the courage to acknowledge his adver-sary's clean title to the victory. The Colonels were outplayed at every point. It wasn't the Angels' luck or the other fellows' hard luck-it was simply better playing that won the game. Nicol pitched, and surprised himself and his on-lookers by his good work. Although free with his bases or balls, he kept Oakland's hits so well scattered that, until near the end of the game, it looked like a white wash for the Northern slug-gers. Had Glenalvin just forgotten to make one error, the Angels would have come out of the fra cas with a clean bill of health. But in basea clean bill of heath. But in oase-stealing is where the Angels really won the game. Nine separate thefts are theirs, while Oakland couldn't even muster up enough courage to purloin a single bag. In earned runs, also, the single bag. In earned runs, also, the home club showed its superiority, which is, of course, directly attributale to their more accurate hitting qual ities. All in all, the home club again demonstrated that it is the best in the eague, and that its present position at the head of the list was gained honestly and honorably.

In the very first inning the Angels made four runs, enough to win the game. "Rasty" Wright started of with a pretty two-bagger. Hulen followed with a base on balls. McCaulowed with a base on balls. McCauley's force sent Wright to third, while the "Kid" was compelled to drop by the wayside. Hutchinson's "dinkey" filled the bases, and Glenalvin's clean base hit sent Wright home and left the bases still full. A convenient

A two-bagger by Nicol also ushered in the second inning. Wright's sacrifice sent the "Kid" to third, and a dropped fly by Hines completed the run. Hulen reached third on McCauley's sacrifice, but Hutchinson's fly outed the side.

In the third bases on balls were alarmingly frequent, but both sides suc-ceeded in reducing them to naught. Wright did the triple act in the be-ginning of the fourth. Hulen flew out; but McCauley's hit sent "Rasty" home. Other Angels attempted to score, but were headed off. In Oakland's half

Neither in the fifth, nor the sixth, nor the seventh nor the eighth did an Angel successfully run the gauntlet. The Colonels managed to bring Irwin home in the sixth, but in the two succeeding innings their trials and tribulations turned into nothing tangible.

The last inning gave the Angels three more runs. They didn't need them, but all was fish that came to their net. After Lytle flew out Lohman "based" on balls. Hughes and Nicol both followed with singles, the latter hitting Lohman while running and thus putting him out. "Rasty's" two-bagger then scored Hughes and Nicol Later Wright stole home while Hulen was purposely oscillating between first and purposely oscillating between first and second, thus keeping the ball in play in the left end of the diamond. McCauley

"Spltiess Willie" let down a little at the tail end of the game and Collopy and Hernon scored. Three bases on balls were given to the Colonel, but be-yond the two runs above mentioned no further damage was done.

The removal of the Stockton club to Sacramento is now an assured fact, according to the Sacramento Bee. That paper says part of the rent has already been paid for Snowflake Park, and work will be commenced at once so that the grounds will be ready for the first game of the second season, July 6. The Bee further says: "Manager Moore has returned to Stockton very well satisfied with the outlook in this city. He had been around considerably, and was surprised to find Sacramento to be such a good baseball town. Wherever he went he received encouragement as an inducement to make the transfer. He says he does not expect to make any money by the transfer, as he is not in the game for the wealth that is in it. He will be satisfied to make expenses only. Moore would have remained longer in Sacramento, but owing to a press of business had to return home. He will be here shortly again."

To become a successful electrical engineer a boy should have a natural talent for mechanics. And he should fortify this talent with a thorough course of practical education.

With the foundation of a good study of electrical and mechanical engineering, combined with a natural taste for mechanical work, good health and an ambition to rise, a young man has before him the probability of success.

But the technical graduate is not an fore him the probability of success.

But the technical graduate is not an engineer; he has received only an important part of his training.

The real engineer's entire life is a constant "educational course."

It has been said that the electrical engineer should be nine-tenths mechanical and one-tenth electrical. He will also require some knowledge of civil engineering. In fact, he should be a general all-round engineer.

INDISPENSABLE STUDIES.

The young student should aim to be-

The young student should aim to be come well grounded in mathematics, physics, chemistry and mechanics. He should also have a good general educa-tion and particularly should he have a fair knowledge of business methods, and the laws of contracts and specifi-cations.

The educated engineer has a better

The educated engineer has a better chance of ultimately becoming eminent in the profession than the one who lacks technical education. He starts with the knowledge which the other has to acquire slowly, and it combines instantaneously with his practical work.

But it must not be forgotton that many an ambitious boy has had from force of circumstances to engage at an early age in manual labor, instead of following his bent and preparing for the work he liked. It will always be so. But such a boy by diligent study will manage to gain the requisite technical knowledge during afterwork hours, and thus makes a chance to gain a position in the profession. The young man who cannot create for himself a chance to acquire technical knowledge is not likely to rise to any eminence.

The student must look fully into the knowledge is not likely to rise to any eminence.

The student must look fully into the mechanical features of electrical engineering.

INDISPENSABLE PRACTICE.

He should have a fair knowledge of boilers, engines, shafting, foundations, construction of buildings and similar work, and he should take a hand whenever he can in all grades of the work. To be successful an engineer must be work, and he should take a hand when-ever he can in all grades of the work. To be successful an engineer must be willing and always ready to lay off his coat, put on his overalls and do any quantity of manual work. The student must make himself competent to per-form any part of a job with his own hands.

I make the points strong on mechanical qualifications. In my experience I have found but little difficulty in teaching trained mechanics how to perform good electrical construction. But many a man having a knowledge of electricity, yet devoid of mechanical talent, is not valuable in practical work, even when well up in technical, scientific theory.

CHOOSING A BRANCH OF ELECTRICAL WORK. WORK.

Owing to the rapid growth of applied electrcity, and to the wonderful developments from year to year in electric lighting, power and railway work, it is almost impossible for any one individual to be proficient in all branches.

individual to be proficient in all branches.

The diversity of the business has separated the different kinds of electrical construction. There are so many divisions that it would require a lifetime o become a master in all.

Therefore it is better to select some one branch in which to attain the mastery. One may become a specialist in electric lighting, or in electric railway, or in electric rollway,

But despite the advantages of a techical education, probably the great maiority of boys, who start in the elecrical business with the view of making it their life work, gain their knowledge of it in a practical way.

THE BOY WHO STARTS IN.

We will suppose that he has of course a natural taste for science, and some aptitude for applied mechanics, and a special interest in electricity.

At the outset he will occupy a posi-

At the outset he will occupy a posi-tion something like "the helper" who tion something like "the helper" who accompanies a plumber. He will stand ready to render assistance to the skilled workman whom he accompanies on different jobs, meanwhile keeping his eyes and ears open to hear all he can. One of the most common branches of electrical work is the lighting of a store or a factory or some other large building. This is comparatively easy, because you have to deal with only one "system" of wires carrying a current to supply one establishment.

Eventually, the boy as he gains experience will assist in lighting a town or a city. The larger the area over rent to supply one establishment.

Eventually, the boy as he gains experience will assist in lighting a town or a city. The larger the area over which the electric light is to be distributed, and the greater the number of individual consumers, the more intricate is the work. The conductors or wires have to be placed on poles or in underground conduits, and the sizes of the conducting wires must be carefully computed with reference to the wants of different individuals along the line, one man requiring more light at one time than his neighbor, and so on. The amount of "current" to be consumed by each subscriber must be measured, and the engineer must see that there is no wastage, and he must guard against possible dangers to life and property.

The amount of "current" required is estimated by the length of time the light is to be used, and the size, number and description of lamps employed. In a circuit having a single dynamo there may be from one to fifty lamps. What is called the "series" system is used in the installation of the arc lamp, and the "parallel" system is used for the incandescent light; in the former system the entire current passes through each lamp; in the latter it is subdivided.

In the more advanced departments of the work accurate mathematical calculations are required.

Many important electrical calculations are made according to what is called "Ohm's law," Ohm being the name of an eminent electrician who discovered the law. And here I will say that I believe # thorough knowledge of Ohm's law is most useful, in fact, indispensable to every man engaged in ordinary electrical work.

While the young electrician is working in the practical field he must also be constantly increasing his theoretical knowledge of the science. He ought to provide himself with the most useful text books treating on the various subjects. He ought to be building up a good working library. The literature of electricity is probably the largest pertaining to any topic of modern science.

As before stated, the field of the must have a fair knowledge about the several kinds of dynamos and about electrical machinery generally. To a knowledge of the different sys-tems of distribution for arc and incan-descent lights he must add a knowl-edge of placing wires overhead and underground; of testing conductors; of testing for insulation; of testing for faults in dynamos and its system of distribution; a familiarity with the process of dynamo construction; also of the construction of arc and incandescent lights; also of the necessary appliances that go to make up a "system" of electric lighting. He must also acquire a knowledge of electric motors, electric railway systems and the details of their construction.

While he is becoming practically familiar with these various branches of electrical engineering, if he is at all ambitious, he will naturally strive for a responsible position where his services will command a compensation. But the main point is to become thoroughly proficient. Then an dvance of position is dead sure to come.

THE BOY OF TODAY IS LUCKY.

The boy of this period has better opportunities afforded him in an educational way than those enjoyed by the men who are now at the top of the profession, when they were boys.

Manual training schools, technical schools, and also special scientific courses in colleges are increased in number, and they all afford a more thoroughly practical common sense education than formerly. All subjects are taught in a and they all afford a more thoroughly practical common sense education than formerly. All subjects are taught in a sensible way with a view to their practical application. Theory and practice are united, and the student who is an enthusiast for electrical engineering finds the road opening broadly before him in a most interesting manner. Everything, indeed, is to the advantage of the present generation of boys.

Speculation About the Ojai Valley Rail-road's Intentions—Fatal Accidents.

The probable intentions of the Ventura and Ojai Valley Railway Company are causing considerable speculative talk among the clitizens of this lively little city. That something of importance is in the wind they are all sure of—they can resi wind they are all sure of—they can rest assured, however, that the company means business, and that the whirl of the electric motor—a storage battery one at that, and from all accounts the first to be used on the Coast—will soon greet their ears. One of the directors of the company will leave soon for San Francisco to complete the arrangements already entered into with the inventor and owner of the motors, and ten days or two weeks will see the cars in operation.

The road will immediately be extended up the avenue several miles, and as soon as the people of the Ojai Valley realize the benefit to be derived by them from the extension of the line to Nordhoff, and raise the small subsidy asked by the company, which would be but a drop in the bucket compared with the increased valuation of property through the entire. It is to be hoped that this line will be speedly finished, as it will make one of the most beautiful and picturesque shor rides in the State.

It is generally supposed that the temperature of the White House is quite chilly of late, especially so to applicants for office from California. But John McGonigle, the veteran editor of the Ventura Democrat, who has recently returned from a visit to the Capital, states in the last issue of his paper that it is exactly the reverse; in fact, it is so hot in the reception room of the Executive Mansion that, as he says. "We felt no inclination to stand in a hot room an hour or more merely to shake the President's hand again." Perhaps it would be well for Venturians who may visit the Capital in the future to take a silice of California climate, as well as other recommendations, along in their inside pocket.

There have been three serious accidents in Ventura and neighborhood in the last few days, two of them proving fatal. Friday a man by the name of McKee, about 80 years of age, living near Saticoy, fell into abarranca, and when found was dead. Saturday a young man working on the Schappa Pietra ranch fell off of a heading machine, breaking his back. JEWELS IN RICH PROFUSION.

At the last drawing-room of Queen Victoria there was a carnival of jewels. One reckless woman, the Marchioness of Tweeddale, was arrayed in a wide skirt, whose many seams were outlined with diamonds and emerals ablaze of gems and so was the Duchess of Buccleuch. The Marchioness seems to have been the only one who sewed up the seams of her skirt, so to speak, with jewels, but, according to the New York Sun, there was quite a goodly number whose bodice seams were outlined with diamonds and consultined with diamonds one lady wore a long string of diamonds across her breast like an order. Lord Sherbrooke's racy style of narrative entered even into the description of his misfortunes. In the autobiographical chapter from which we quoted the other day in our comments on Patchett Martin's book there is an account of his fall over a precipice—fortunately ending in water. The fall, he tells us, was to be 120 feet, but he adds: "On this I can give no opinion, for my experience has proved to me that the worst possible way of measuring a height is to fall down it. TUCSON, June 16.—It is about time that all this hue and cry about Arizona's heat should cease. Deaths from heat in this Territory are exceedingly few and far between. There is a very marked difference between Arizona's heat and that of the Eastern States, where numerous sunstrokes occurred a few days ago, the strokes occurred a few days ago, the mercury registering at the time only 87 deg. Notwithstanding the occasional altitude to which our bright sunshine sends the mercury, there is no more healthful, balmy or delightful climate in the world than that which we have light here in Southern Arigans.

W. Dorrington's garden Saturday, June 10, one week later, than usual, the variety is early Schiesler; late apricots arripe and in market; the early crop has been gone for two months; all kinds of vegetables have an immense growth; farmers continue to prepare land for sowing alfalfa.

making a fine summer growth; they never before presented so fine an appearance as they do now; the oranges are as large as good-sized hen's eggs; melons are ripe.

Prof. Bailey of the Chicago Inter-Ocean is quoted as saying:

"Times are hard, financially, East, and will be for some time yet. In spite of the tightness of the money market, I find the capitalists willing to listen to talks on irrigation; in fact, more willing than usual, as they are seeking investments that have a land basis as security."

That is the sort of talk that proves the hope of Arizona. Prof. Bailey and his associates are now at Kingman to examine into a big irrigation scheme. They are interested also in that great industry, the cultivation of canalgre.

Ten thousand head of cattle, it is estimated, will be shipped from Yavapai county this summer. Cattle there are now in good condition. Plenty of stock is yet left in Southern Arizona. Senator Stewart is in favor of a bill to deed all the arid land of the West to the States in which they are situated. Arizona is with the Senator on this proposition, and would like even the school kinds and other grants that Statehood would bring.

The Territorial Board of Equalization made raises of $3800 per mile in valuations of the Southern Pacific and Atlantic and Pacific roads. The members will probably not change the levy. And the railroads will not likely meet the raise.

Another irrigation and water-storage enterprise is being surveyed on the Gila twelve miles above Yuma, by George Norton. The proposition is to put a sixty-foot dam on the river where it is crossed by a natural bridge. The river has a fall of over three feet to the mile, and it will consequently back the water twenty miles. The canal will run east of Yuma and into Mexico.

Work on the Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix Railroad continues with unabated vigor, and the working force is kept up to its usual number.

A 20,000 transfer of real estate in the business part of Phoenix was consummated a few days ago.

M. I. Pomeroy is subdividing into town lots his farm on the southern edge of Mesa City. The lofts are twelve to the block, in size 57x170. He will place them at $80, and reports already a brisk demand.

Prescott has subscribed $2000 toward celebrating the Fourth of July at that city. That city never does things by halves.

A dispatch from Hermosillo, Mexico, states that settlers in the mountain districts east of that city are suffering from Indian depredations. Kid is again blamed for it.

It is estimated that not less than 540,000,000 acres of desert land in the West are capable of being redeemed by the process of irrigation.

"STEADY, MEN! STEADY!" The need of the hour in financial and business circles is coolness and steadiness, courage and confidence. It is true that some effects of the prevailing unsteadiness in Eastern money centers have reached California, and have come pretty near to Los An geles; but there is no sufficient reason for alarm, and a panic at this time would be illogical, not to say senseles and needlessly harmful. Especially would this be so should it occur in Los Angeles, whose banks are confessedly among the very soundest in the whole country. For a long time past the methods of their management have been notoriously conservative and safe rainbow-chasing, sky-scraping and wildcat are terms not in their vocabulary; and in the leading institutions the surplus of cash on hand is kept steadily at the large figures necessary for perfect security.

There was a time when the leading bankers of this city were upbraided. severely criticised and even denounced for their wise refusal to let down the bars and open their vaults to the property-grabbing and money-slinging spec ulators, who, during the wild days of "the boom," were reaching out for everything in sight, and seeking to make something out of nothing; trying to do an enormous business on no capital, and to lift themselves into fortune and fame by their own boot straps. But that day is happily past and the very bankers - one of then conspicuously - who set their faces against the encouragement of illegitimate speculation have had the satisfac tion of seeing their course approved and their motives vindicated-in many cases by the selfsame persons who once years ago) is happily behind us, and chas increased over 66 per cent. ing. The Times gives more at length the City of the Angels.

That business in this city is in a sound and flourishing condition, any intelligent peson may easily ascertain who takes the trouble to investigate. Even should some sporadic case of orehind in the race. temporary embarrassment occur through the prevailing stringency in the great money centers, it would not in any degree affect the truth of this statement.

Had a financial crisis occurred about four years ago, when the lowest poin? of depression was reached in Los Angeles, the case might have been different. But since then there has been a steady increase in the deposits of the banks, until they have now almost reached the highest point attained during the boom-in January, 1888. The capital and reserve of the banks has been steadily increasing since 1886. Los Angeles is at present like a patient who has gone through a fever, which has cleared out the effete matter from his system, leaving the blood in healthy condition, and, to a great extent, epidemic-proof.

A recent statement showed that deposits in the banks of Southern California had increased 30 per cent. in two years, as compared with an increase of only 16 per cent, in the State at large. Of the net amount due to banks of California from the East, over one-half was due to Southern California, which has only one-tenth of the deposits of the State. The deposits of Southern California amounted to $99 per capita, as compared with $65 per capita in the rest of the State, outside of San Fran-

A good index to the financial condition of a city is furnished by the bank clearings. On the 3d of this month Bradstreets published an interesting table, showing the bank clearings at 84 cities for May this year, at 70 cities for five months this year and last, "and at 58 cities for four years. We have analyzed this table, and herewith pre gent some of the figures, which are of special interest to Los Angeles.

first five months of 1892 and 1893 were as follows: -

TWELFTH YEAR.

United States. ..$26,169,594,459 $26,486,588,056 Los Angeles. . . 16,159,416 22,328,537 This shows an increase of only a little over 1 per cent. in the total bank clearings of the country for five months, while the increase in the Los Angeles clearings is over 38 per cent. The showing for the month of May alone is even more favorable to Los Angeles. The total of May bank clearings throughout the country is $5,244,-502,329, a decrease of 11 per cent. from the total of January this year, and an increase of only 41/2 per cent, over May, 1892. The clearings of Los Angeles were $5,307,795 in May, as against $3,-340,592 in May, 1892, showing an increase of nearly 60 per cent.

Now, let us look at the figures for the first five months of the past four years, Here-they are, for the country

1891			22,684,834,242
1892			26,169,594,459

And	here they	are for Lo	s Angeles:
1890			$13,446,584
1009			99 999 598

So that, while the total bank clear ings of the country for the first five months of the year have only increased 11/2 per cent. in four years, those of Los Angeles have shown a steady and uninterrupted increase of over 66 per cent, within the same period.

Surely, if ever figures were eloquent these are.

The increase in San Francisco clearings during May, 1893, over May, 1892, was only 5% per cent., as against 60 per shows a decrease in May, 1893, from it We say, then, that the era of wild dhundred and fourteen) per cent. in Los speculation, mushroom ventures and Angeles. Scattle has only increased about 20 per cent. during four years, and Portland 15 per cent., while Salt Lake City shows a decrease, so that, if Los Angeles keeps up its present rate of progress, we shall soon leave all those cities In estimating the value of these figures, there are several things to be considered, which give them still more significance. The extent of the Los Angeles clearings, owing to peculiar conditions, does not adequately represent the increase in the city's resources. All the banks are not represented in the clearing-house. The large sums received in Eastern exchange by lowns tributary to Los Angeles, for shipments of fruit and other produce are unavoidably received and handled brough the Los Angeles banks in such manner that only a small percentage of the remittances is represented in the learings, either directly or indirectly

The fact, also, that San Francisco is still treated by our suburban banks as the financial center of the State, is an other potent factor in depriving our of their proper size. Yet, in spite of all these disadvantages, Los Angeles has increased its clearings, so far this year, 66 per cent. over 1890, as against one-third of 1 per cent. in Sar Francisco, and 11/2 per cent. in the coun-

When we look to the real estate mar ket, which has played so important a part in the development of Los An geles, we find further encouraging greater than it has been since 1887. Few of these transactions are the closing up of old deals, but purchases for investment. Prices have touched bed rock, and are now on the up grade. Eastern capital has been coming in freely. A New York real estate publication recently called attention to the fact that the mortgaged property in this city and county is 3 per cent. less this city and county is 3 per cent. less of their Sundays than by inspecting the than the general average of the United instructive exhibits at the fair, which States. fairs. It is true that the returns from the orange crop of last season have not, in most cases, been satisfactory to the growers, although the aggregate sum received for the six thousand or so carloads of the season's crop is very large. But Southern California no longer depends upon the orange crop, or upon any other one crop. Deciduous fruits are becoming an important part of our products, and will soon rival in value the citrus crop. Hundreds of thousands of dollars will be received this year for Southern California apricots, and peaches, and prunes, and walnuts, and Berries. Trainloads of cab bage and potatoes are sent East. The grain crop will probably be the largest ever known in this section. Antelope Valley, a corner of the Mojave desert will alone ship 600 carloads of grain The new packing-house has furnished good market for thousands of hogs Hundreds of petroleum wells gush forth their streams of liquid wealth A smelter will soon pay cash for the products of our mines. On every hand one sees production, improvement and progress. Los Angeles has her financial house in good order, and has no reason to fear contagion from the prevailing epidemic. In short, to use an expressive phrase of the day, "Los Angeles is all right!"

Riverside County.

The new county of Riverside is not in full running order, with a board of supervisors at active work, and all the other concomitants of county Very wisely, the new government. county has resolved to defer for some time the building of expensive county offices, and will content itself with rented buildings.

Few new counties have started out with such fair prospects as Riverside. Of the 57 counties of California, 49 have a less area, 31 less population, and 29 less valuation. county extends nearly across the State, from the eastern boundary of Orange county to the Colorado River. with a total area of over 7000 square The population in 1890 was 13.745, which is more than the population of either Orange or Ventura ounty. Since that time it has largely increased, the city of Riverside alone claiming more than half that popula-

Except a line of seacoast, A comparison with San Francisco is it is an epitome of Southern Calialso very favorable to Los Angeles. fornia. Every known horticultural product may be raised in some part of the county. Its climate includes dépressions on the desert, 200 feet cent. in Los Angeles. San Francisco below sea-level, where the noonday sun is almost unbearable at mid-May, 1890, of nearly 5 per cent., as winter, and mountain summits where compared with an increase of 114 (one snow remains throughout the year. It has some of the most productive and some of the most worthless soil in the State.

But the most notewothy feature of this new political subdivision of California is that everything in the line of improvements which the county contains has practically been created within the brief space of twenty years. Riverside county is a monument to the value of irrigation. Its seal should contain a sketch of a flowing artesian well, whence come the vitalizing fluid that worked this magic transformation.

Twenty-five years ago there were about 300 people within the boundarles of what is now the county of Riverside, of whom at least three fourths were native Californians, Indians and half-breeds. In 1870, when the first steps were taken toward the formation of the Riverside colony, the site of that city was an arid plain dotted with cactus and sage brush The nearest railroad was at Spadra in Los Angeles county, thirty miles away. Los Angeles itself was a town less than 6000 population. Wate was hauled from the Santa Ana River, at a cost of 25 cents a barrel

And now Riverside county has over 20,000 acres in orchard and vine yard. The orange crop of the county, the past season, was considerably over 2000 carloads. Within five years, the fruit crop of the county will, at a moderate estimate, be worth $3,000,000. The assessed valuation of the county rlast year was over $12,500,000. River side city boasts of being the wealthiest wity in the United States in proportion to population. Its actual valuation will twive an average of over $12,000 to every family in the city. Its public ischool buildings have cost $135,000, and its fifteen church organizations own property worth $140,000. It has an opera to the value of $1,000,000 were erected

And all this has been accomplished within a score of years, upon a forbidding desert, by means of irrigation Surely no better object lesson of the advantages of irrigation could found anywhere in the wide world. In the face of such achievements, how much importance should be attached to a little financial flurry in which a single private bank went down?

When the National Irrigation Congress meets in Los Angeles next fall the members should be invited to go to the new county of Riverside, where, in a day, they will learn more of the power of water when married to the soil than they can gather from reading

It will be seen that the bounty on beet sugar is but a small proportion of the whole, and yet much and yet much good has been accord plished by this modest investment. The material employed in the handsome street gown of this picture is wood brown diagonal trimmed with ribbon. The gown is cut Princess and closes in back beneath a boxpleat reaching from the neck to the bottom. The different parts of the gown are blased to form a bell skirt, which is lined with silk and stiffened with muslin to a height of twenty inches. The meeting at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon was addressed by Judge J. W. McKinley. His remarks were upon the "Confession of Coveteous-ness," and the case of Achan was cited as an example. The speaker said, among other things, that it was commendable in a man that he should to a reasonable extent seek to gain wordly possessions. The great trouble, however, was that, although before becoming wealthy one might resolve that he would use his wealth for a good purpose, yet, when the riches were within his grasp, he is quite likely to forget his good intentions. A man should use his wordly success for the help of others, and a man has failed in doing his duty when he leaves this world without having done something to make it better. cited as an example.

Baccalaureate Sermon at the First Presbyterian.

An Eloquent Discourse by the Rev Burt Estes Howard.

Annual Sermon Before the University of Southern California.

Church-Tributes to the Memory of the Late Pastor, Rev. G. F. Bugbee.

The First Presbyterian Church was packed to the doors last night, on the ccasion of the baccalaureate sermon pefore the Occidental College. It was an eloquent discourse, abounding in il-lustrations of force and beauty.

Mr. Howard's text was from John iv. 38: "Others have labored, and ye have entered into their labors.'

The men and women of today take up burden not where their fathers lifted it to their shoulders, but far on leave behind them, covered with just, the hands that gathered for them the treasures they now enjoy, the legacies left by master minds of the past. It has been said, sneeringly, that the modern schoolboy knows more that Socrates. In a measure it may be so. Socrates. In a measure it may be so. Because we live today in temples our hands have not reared. One lays the foundation, another builds upon it. Rarely do men enjoy the fruits of their own exertion. This is the story of almost every life. No man can measure his life by what he receives, but by the uplift he gives to those who come after him. No age or generation is independent; it is inseparably bound to the past. But every generation adds interest for the generations to come. No man livethto himself and no man dieth to himself. What the world will be depends largely upon what your life may give it.

Gain and fame shape life for multitudes. Dollars and cents may mark what a man has, but never what he is. A man's value can only truly be counted by what he is worth in nobility and righteousness. His life has largest meaning who has best served his gen-

God takes us into partnership with Him. Thus we are called to pour ourselves into His work. We are a factor in all His problems. It weaves our little lives into the pattern that God is making. And all of God's work is to lead man' up to perfection. No man can be faithful to the trust God imposes who is seeking how much he can get out of the world, not how much he can put into it. Today we stand on a commanding pinnacle of achievement, but is there no call for us to add something to life also? Thus we are called to po

The keynote of it is giving, not gaining Life means labor, not for yourselves but for others, and for the years to but for others, and for the years to come. It is not necessary to be known, to be of value. A man's life is not useless, though his name is never spoken. See how the islands of the sea, that rear proudly now, were wrought, because of minute shell-fish that have lived and died, each making its little shell, until finally every shell lifted the formation upward, and upward, until at ast a beautiful island was the result. last a beautiful island was the result.

last a beautiful island was the result. What the world needs today is not great names, but great souls.

The cross of Christ has been handed down from generation to generation. You are the ones who must lift it up and bear it on. What the next generation will receive depends upon how we bear Christ's cross today. This symbol of service is laid at your feet. You are of service is laid at your feet. You are to raise it and bear it along and lay it at the feet of your Master. Move out into life fearlessly, to face its hardships and endure its blows, if by so doing you can add to the treasury of the ages to the invest the treasury of the ages, to the jewels that the years have gathered as they passed along.

Rev. 'Thomas Haskins, formerly rector of Christ Church of this city, paid a fine tribute to that quality of Mr. Bugbee's character, which, simply as a man, drew others to him. There was something superior and dominant in his nature, a chief distinguishing element, which won heazts. He did not seek to build up his church, he sought to gain the world to righteousness, and he held wide both arms to all believers in Jesus Christ. Ministers believers in Jesus Christ. Ministers of the gospel have different gifts. This man seemed sent of the Lord to do a certain work, and he did it. His works must surely follow him. Every one of the three years of his pastorate bring forth. You are not, therefore, to think of loss, or of discipline laid upon you, but rather of the blessing of the gift of such a rector, who was lent to minister unto you.

He closed his remarks by a single allusion to Mr. Bugbee's sufferings, and the need that he should cease from physical struggle. Although nature must grieve, yet faith is strong, and it should be a cause of thanksgiving that God has given a loved one rest.

IMMANUEL CHURCH.

Yesterday was Communion Sunday at Immanuel Church, and at the morning service sixty-four new members were welcomed into church reliowship. Dr. Chichester began his sermon with a tender and touching reference to the death of his "beloved friend and neighbor, Rev. Mr. Bugbee." The text was I John, iii. 2: "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be." The sermon was a helpful preparation for the holy communion, and the whole service was one of unusual interest.

of unusual interest. In the evening Hon. Samuel Minor de-ivered an eloquent and scholarly ad-

TEMPLE STREET CHRISTIAN CHURCH. Rev. A. C. Smither, pastor of the Temple street Christian Church, preached to a large congregation yesterday moraing on "The Early Life of Jesus," or that period covered by His life before His public ministry. He called attention to the fact that Christ was intensely human as well as divine; that He passed through all the experiences incident to toiling and suffering humanity; that He toiled and suffered and endured all that the world could heap upon a perfect character, and that by these means He became a perfect high priest, and is, therefore, prepared to deeply sympathize with all His followers and lead them to the heights of righteousness. By thus be-Temple street Christian Church His followers and lead them to the heights of righteousness. By thus be-coming human He sanctified the rela-tionship of child and mother, and lifted woman to her present high position in society, and cares for the child from infancy. In these long years of obscurity and toil, when most likely He was, by and toil, when most likely He was, by work at the carpenter trade, supporting His mother and younger brothers and sisters, He has sanctified labor and shown it to be the common heritage of man. He has taken away the stigma from poverty; for He himself had not where to lay His head and was buried it attranger's tomb. His life was one of a stranger's tomb. His life was one of the greatest poverty and hardship. By these means He was intimately associated with the race which He came to save. In this perfect life of Christ He teaches the worth of man apart from earthly conditions or circumstances. God finds worth in character. A con-God finds worth in character. A con-cluding lesson is taught from Christ's life, that purity can grow amid the vilest surrounding, even as the fragrant lily draws its life from the mud and mire. Amid the most wicked surround-ings, Christ shines as the purest char-acter of human history; is the fairest flower of the race.

UNITY CHURCH.
Rev. C. W. Wendté, the new Unita rian bishop for the Pacific Coast, preached an eloquent sermon on "The Faith of the Infidels," from the words: "The just shall live by faith," Gala-tians iii, 11. He instanced Bruno, Voltlans iii, 11. He instanced Bruno, Vol-taire, Hume, Locke, Paine, Jefferson and Franklin, as men that believed in God, conscience, the wise and moral order of the universe, although they had been branded as atheists by some theologians. He said Ingersoll had no right to claim these illustrious names as authority for his irresponsible and superficial agnosticism, since they held the doctrines of Christian theism, imthe doctrines of Christian theism, immortality and rewards and punishments, which Ingersollists do not cherish. The speaker then proceeded to show the necessity and power of faith in the world. He caught his inspiration from the eleventh chapter of brews, and he communicated it to his large and attentive audience. Faith is the soul of enthusiasm, enterprise, civilization, and all noble lives. Doubt and skepticism never have produced a great man. Faith has made the heroes of all ages. A mere doubter is not a man; he is a negation. Great souls may have experienced occasional doubts; but experienced occasional doubs; but they were too earnest and courageous to stop with doubts and negations. In the name and love of truth they went forward in their studies till they won the mighty affirmations of the spirit which banished their doubts. Christ's faith is truth and the salvation of mankind.

Bishop Wendte's success in the southern part of his large diocese is already

SIMPSON CHURCH. Dr. Bresee preached from St. John "Said I not unto thee if thou wouldst believe thou shouldst see the glory of God."

He said: One of the things we may speak of, but can never tell, is the cry of the human soul. Many are here, doubtless, who know the meaning of that strange double word, heartache. When outer conditions press us, the in tellectual life turns in upon itself, the tellectual life turns in upon itself, the inner life grows stagnant, and a pain hardly physical gathers at the fountain of life. A pain more moral and spiritual, yet affecting the whole being. There are many things which surround the human soul which tend to press it back upon itself, and press out of it the cry of desolation and need. We feel it in all our relations. But our Lord has not left, this heart, cry upon Lord has not left, this heart, cry upon. our Lord has not left this heart-cry unanswered. He who heareth the young ravens, is not deaf to the cry of His

There is one imperial word in the gospel on which the larger, richer life of man is conditioned. That word is believe. Destiny turns on that word. It is the fulcrum by which men are lifted. It touches the Savior's life, and receives His virtue. It is the new sense by which the soul sees, hears and feels the divine.

When the apostle speaks of faith, hope and love, and says love is the greatest, he speaks of the rich fruitage of the tree of which faith is the root. believe. Destiny turns on that word.

of the tree of which faith is the root. The most vital thing is the root. Believing, oin Christian parlance, is more moral than intellectual. The intellect discerns the facts and gives assent to recognized truth, but there enters into believing all the forces and ters into believing all the forces and powers of our being inspired and reinforced by the Divine Spirit. There is the turning from our thoughts to think His thoughts; the bending our will to the Divine in earnest obedience; the stretching out of our hands to lay hold of His very life.

We have had aposties of doubt, whose great mission was to exalt and glorify great mission was to exalt and glorify it. I know of no instance where doub was a blessing to the doubter. God may overrule an honest doubt and re-veal himself to that honest doubter as to Thomas, but how much more to a believer.

Rev. J. D. Crum preached an instruive sermon at the Central M. E. Church from Mark vi. 50, "And he said unto them be of good cheer. It is I; be not afraid." After performing the miracle of feeding the multitude with the five loaves, Jesus told his disciples to depart to the other side, while He sent the multitude away, and He then retired into a solitary place to pray. The disciples would no doubt have preferred to stay with Him, but they obeyed the commands of Jesus.

He who obeys will receive great blessings. Even though he cannot under-ings. Even though he cannot under-stand the reasons, it is right and proper that we should obey the commands of God.

We should be prepared for storms on the ocean of life, and expect that God will often bring these trials only to bring us nearer to Him, but if we have Jesus with us we need not fear the wildest storms. The disciples were surrounded by the angry storms and fierce waves of the sea, but when Jesus came with them the storm was calmed.

You may ask why the trials come to us when we are the disciples of Christ. was when we are the disciples of Christ. Please note that though Christ was bodily upon the earth, the disciples did not escape the storm. He saved them in the storm in this instance was the means of hyperies the disciples.

The storm in this instance was the means of bringing the disciples to understand Christ's divine nature more fully than they had ever done before, and so it is with the tempests of life. As Jesus was watching over the disciples as they toiled against the tempestuous waves, so He is watching over you and over all who are in trouble or distress.

Jesus is always near in every storm

Jesus is always near in every storm and trial, and is saying to the troubled soul, "It is I; be not afraid."

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH The annual sermon of the University of Southern California was preached by Rev. Dr. J. W. Campbell, at the First Methodist Church. The auditorium was crowded, and the words of the preacher were listened to with evident interest.

were listened to with evident interest.
He said, in part: Eighteen hundred and ninety-three years ago there appeared in Judea a man called Jesus Christ. Never before nor since did our world present a character or embodiment of wisdom, power and goodness as was found in His person.
He walked upon the waves of the sea

He walked upon the waves of the sea as upon a pavement of granite. The grave let go its grasp and gave up its prey at the voice of Jesus.

He was a teacher. He spoke wonderful sermons from nature's pulpits. He confounded the skeptics and disturbed the hypocrite. Human enmity tolerated Him for only three years of ministry. He was tried by a rabble and a lawless tribunal, and was condemned on the testimony of subordinate witnesses. He was crucified as a malefactor and had His grave assigned among the wicked. After a sleep of three days in His grave, it is undeniable that he was seen by above a hundred for forty days after His resurrection.

As touching the character of Christ's government, it is declared to be peace. Unlike the governments that preceded it, it is to conquer by slaying sin, and not the sinner. Let us not mistake the character of Christ's government to such a degree that we may at least couclude that the sinner may rest and be at peace in his sins. He came into this world to make war upon sin, to invade its domains and raise a sieze.

ate it. cond distinguishing feature in covernment is its growth. Of Christ's government is its growth. Of the increase of His government there shall be no end. When Christ entered upon His missionary work, the work of converting the world, He associated Himself with the world, He associated Himself with twelve neen as helpers.

From this small and seemingly insig-nificant beginning His kingdom ad-vanced triumphantly to the sublimest conquests, till His ranks were filled with both Jews and Gentles, and a shock of moral power went through the heathen world that shook it to the heatnen world that should be to its foundations.

The preacher here went on to trace the development of Christianity and the opposition presented against it. He also alluded to several instances in which opposition had served only "Economy is now the watchword on all American roads," says the Chicago Herald. "Railroad managers are coming to value the services of an official who can save in operating expenses more than one who gains increased traffic at an increased cost. One of the first fruits of the spirit of economy is the establishment of a freight clear-ing-house by the twenty-two Chicago terminal lines. They are to settle all accounts between the terminal roads by the payment of halances alone, and the collection of all railroad accounts from shippers. The details are now complete, and the clearing-house will probably be in operation this week. Auditor Kirkman of the Northwestern probably be in operation this week. Auditor Kirkman of the Northwestern will have charge of its operations. It is believed the clearing-house will enable the railroads to dispense with the services of more than one hundred employees. It will also be a great convenience to shippers, as one man will now present the bills of all roads, instead of each road sending a collector. "Another radical move toward economy is one the Vanderbilt lines will soon put into effect by consolidating the duties of its fast freight line officials. Probably none of the freight lines will be abolished, but one agent must hereafter do the business formerly transacted by two or more. For instance, the West Shore has four men in Chicago, each soliciting business for one of its four Western connections—the Lake Shore. Michigan Central, Grand Trunk and Nickel Plate. One of, at most, two, men will do this soliciting when the plan is in operation. In this way the Vanderbilt lines have multiplied their agents at all important points. In each case the same reduction in force will be made."

SOUTHERN PACHIC LOCAL RATES.

The new tariffs of the Pacific Coast Steamship line and the Southern Pacific Railroad are causing much talk in San Francisco. The Bulletin of last Friday had a column article devoted to incon-

Francisco. The Bulletin of last Friday had a column article devoted to incon-sistencies discoverable in the rallroad company's local rates. That paper sistencies discoverable in the railroad company's local rates. That paper says:

"The highest all-rail freight rate from San Francisco to Los Angeles by the Southern Pacific Company's lines on and after Friday, June 16, will be $12 per ton, and the lowest will be $12 per ton, and the lowest will be $15 per ton. The greater bulk of merchandise is in classes Nos. 4 and 5, which will move all-rail from San Francisco to Los Angeles at $7.50 and $5.50 per ton, respectively. The distance by rail from San Francisco to Los Angeles is set down at 482 miles. The rates by the Pacific Coast Steamship Company and rail from San Francisco to Los Angeles are less than by the Southern Pacific Company alone, but the Southern Pacific all-rail rates are given for purposes of flustration. By comparison, the fallacy which underlies the whole system of the local rates of the Southern Pacific Company in Southern California will appear. By the all-rail line, the freights between San Francisco and Los Angeles go over the Tehachepi Mountain. It has been shown how much cheaper it is to haul freight to Bakersfield from San Francisco via Los Angeles than it is to haul it directly up the San Joaquin Valley from this city to Bakersfield over a level country."

The steamer Rosalie is having time competing for passenge merry time competing for passenger business between San Francisco and Vallejo. The rates are being cut from $1 down to 25 cents in consequence. Sapta Monica and Port Los Angeles had a big crowd yesterday. The big wharf attracted many vistors. The Santa Fe did a good Redondo business yesterday.

SMOOTH "DR." FLOYD.

Further Evidence That the "Deed" He Uses in His "Business" is Forged. [Stockton Mail.]

Prosecuting Attorney Rendon is in receipt of a letter from W. A. Ryan, deputy district attorney of Los Angeles county, concerning E. Floyd, who was yesterday arraigned for obtaining on false pretenses. The letter 'Dear Rendon: Some time ago w prosecuted a man named E. Floyd for obtaining money under false pretenses by selling territory for the sale of the Wishart sad-iron, patented by Jame M. Wishart, on the ground that Floyd had no right or title to the patent, and no right to sell territory. On the preno right to sell territory. On the preliminary examination he suddenly produced what purported to be a deed signed by James M. Wishart, patentee, granting him the right to sell his patent in the State of California. The deed was regular on its face, and as we had no proof that it was a Torgery, he was discharged. I see by the enclosed letter that he is in jail at Stockton.

When you get through with him, please write me the result. He is a slick swingler, and the deed is evidently a forgery. Yours respectfully.

"Deputy District Attorney."
The inclosure mentioned in Ryan's letter is a communication from James M. Wishart, dated at Topeka, Kan., on June 9. It is addressed to Ryan, and reads:

June 9. It is addressed to Ryan, and reads:

"In reply to yours of late date, I would say that I never was in the State of California; Denver, Colo., being the nearest point to your State. The man Floyd I never saw, and never had any business transactions with him. The parties that he has sold territory to will take care of him; or at least they ought to, for he misrepresented to them in order to get their money. I could not go to California at present, for I must be in Chicago for a few months, from now on. I understand that Floyd is again in jail in the city of Stockton, Cal., and parties are there to try and convict him, which I hope they will do. Others are after him, therefore I believe he will be taken care of without me.

"Yours respectfully,

Yours respectfully, "JAMES M. WISHART."

BELIEVED IMPROBABLE

The Story of Julia Smith's Disapper Discredited.

made public yesterday regarding the alleged mysterious disappearance of one Julia Smith, who has for many years been a member of the household of J. C. Wallace at Alhambra. From the statements made it appeared that the stepfather of the young woman had called at the Wallace residence and incalled at the Wallace residence and in-quired after Miss Smith, whereupon he was told by Mr. Wallace that she was not there and had not been there for some time. More than that Mr. Wal-lace claimed to be entirely ignorant of her whereabouts. The stepfather then began hunting around, so he said, and finally gained from Dr. Kellogg, a resident physician of Alhambra, the admission that he knew where the missing girl was, but that he refused to divulge any further information, only saying that she would be able to see her relatives in a few days. The step-father, whose name by the way is William Gibson, then came to town and visited the District Attorney, to ascertain what legal course he might take in searching for the girl.

Such was the story as given, but which bears in its every outline the suggestion of improbability. The parties concerned are well-known citizens of Alhambra, and as Miss Smith has made her home at the Wallaces for thirteen years past, those who are acquainted with the family scout the idea that the stepfather should be concerned over her disappearance, or that he believed that such was a fact.

A Serious Mishap.

Evaristo Hossman, a barber who is employed in a shop on Market street, while attempting to board a car of the Aliso street horse car line last evening, missed his footing, and, in falling, so twisted his right leg as to break the bone just above the ankle. Officer Valencia was near by when the accident occurred, and assisted the man into a conveyance, when he was taken to his home on Brooklyn avenue. Hossman has a large family entirely dependent upon his earnings for support, and the accident willprove a severe hardship to it as well as to him-

J. T. Sheward 113-115 N. Spring St.

WE believe today will be the largest day's trade for this year up to date. Unusual and extraordinary preparations have been made with this object in view. We are making an offer today that has never been made by any dry goods house East or West. It is the most liberal-the most complete, and we hope it will be the most far-reaching. In addition to the very elegant goods we are giving away in fine framed photograveurs, we offer our entire stock of all-wool dress goods that sells any other day for 60, 65, 70 and 75 cents, all at 50c a yard. Our entire stock of all-wool dress goods that sells any other time for 85c, 90c and a dollar a yard, for 75c. Every yard at the prices quoted is included in this offer. We offer all remnants of table linens at one-half the marked price. We offer number 5 and 7, all silk ribbon, in all colors for 5c a yard. The pictures we have on display are real works of art. The frames alone are worth a place in the finest homes. Nearly one hundred different designs, ten different styles of frames with glass and back complete. Then come the fine bisque head dolls with kid bodies, worth $1.50, they go with a $5 purchase in any part of the house. We want to turn public attention in this direction. We want to double up business. Los Angeles is the most prosperous city on the Coast. Why not take advantage of this and largely increase trade? propose to do it. The upward turn is coming with a rush. This summer's trade will be the best Los Angeles ever had. We are making the strongest effort to double up sales over a year ago. Bargains in millinery for today. Bargains in corsets for today. Big bargains in capes for today. Moderate prices prevail in every department. We cater for the trade of the masses. Medium goods at moderate prices. We cut, fit and baste capes free, and sell more capes than all the other houses combined. The laces and veilings have special inducements to offer today. The ribbon department will sell numbers 5 and 7, all silk ribbon, for 5 cents a yard, any other day 10 and 121c. Elegant picture free with a $5 purchase. Finer and more costly pictures with a $10 purchase. Undoubtedly there will be a very large crowd. Fine dolls free with a $5 purchase. Today big bargains in dress goods, linens, wash dress goods, laces, corsets, millinery, and still bigger bargains in that famous cloak department. We are getting ready for the greatest fall business ever done.

"THE HUMAN SHEEP."

The Champion Hard-headed Man of Orange County.

lexander Jones, the Englishman Whos Cranium is Proof Against any Kind of a Knock-An Iron Bar.

It is not generally known, but it is In Santa Ana, Orange county, who is believed to have the greatest head in the world. Now this may seem like an exaggerated statement, but if any man thinks he has a greater head than "Alexander Jones of England," or better known among the "way up" sports of San Francisco as "the human sheep," let him bring his head up alongside of the upper terminus of the subject of this sketch. When the heads are scrutinized, if the "doubting Thomas" is not convinced of the superiority of the head of the "human sheep" a little set-to in butting will probably be all that is nec-essary to establish the greatness of the Englishman's iron-like head.

The Human Sheep.

The Times reporter, upon learning of the presence of this somewhat noted inthe presence of this somewhat noted in-dividual in the city, sought an inter-view with him. Finding him at his hotel, the reporter asked him if he was Alexander Jones of England, the butter. "That's what they call me," was the cheerful response, "and I believe I've got the hardest head in the world. Want to see it?" he asked, taking on his hat as he woke.

Want to see it? he asked, taking on his hat as he spoke.

The reporter felt of it and found it to be almost like a cannon ball, it was so hard. It was peculiar shaped, and the scalp seemed utterly immovable.

'il'we butted iron with it and I'we butted sheep and niggers, and there don't nothin' have no effect on it."

His low brow and protruding crown

His low brow and protruding crown

His low brow and protruding crown gave his head the appearance of having been battered down a bit, but he soon gave ample proof that scarcely anything short of an earthquake could make any impression on it.

"Now, I'm not goin' to butt any, but I just want to show you," he remarked as he picked up a heavy wooden solid-scated chair, the bottom being two inches or more thick. "Now look at this chair," said he; "it is, as solid as they make 'em. Now watch me."

He raised the chair in his hand and balanced it over his head by resting the back upon his chin. The hard chair bottom was nearly two feet from the top of his head, when, quick as a flash, heave the state of the chair and the chair in his hand, when, quick as a flash, heave the his head, when, quick as a flash, heave the state of the chair and the chair in his head, when, quick as a flash, heave the state of the chair and the state of the chair in the chair in bottom was nearly two feet from the top of his head, when, quick as a flash, he gave his chin a jerk, and down came the full weight of the chair on the top of his head. The sound was like the blow of a sledge hammer on a solid block of wood, but Jones hardly winked. The effect of this performance was rather startling to one who saw it for the first time, but after it had been repeated several times and Jones noticed that the press represencative did not manifest several times and Jones noticed that the press representative did not manifest as much surprise then as when the chair came down upon his head, the first time, he wanted the reporter to climb up and take a seat on the inverted piece of furniture and take a drop, but the request was politely although firmly declined.

When this remarkable man had tired of letting chairs drop on his head and butting the plastering off the interior of a solid brick wall he allowed himself to tell stories of his prowess. His story of the discovery of his hard-headedness and the development of the specialty can best be told in his own words.

English-"I am Alexander Jones, the English-man, but I was born in Wales, in 1859, man, but I was born in Wales, in 1869, Sometimes they call me 'The Human Sheep' and 'The Boss Butter.' It all goes. I struck 'Frisco in 1882. I came over on the J. B. Walker from Liverpool, and I had enough of it. A bloke tried to shanghai me on board an English heat and 'Translatin'. glish boat and I wouldn't go. He tackled me up by the Seaman's Home, by the postedice, and I fell too and give him a good lickin', so I jumped on a car and went down to South San Francisco, where I stayed for many months."

"But how did you know you had such a hard head!" asked the reporter.

"Well. you see I always noticed it was tighter than most folks' and I used to hear about niggers' hard heads till I got to knocking it agin the well just to got to knocking it agin the well just to to hear about niggers' hard heads till I got to knocking it agin the wall just to see if it hurt. You see I'm an all-round man. I'm a bit of a wrestler, and the sports all know me. Once I took a run up to St. Helena, and had a row with a Chinaman up there. The yellow fellow struck me over the head with an iron bar, and I didn't feel it. So, says I to myself all we will be the says I to myself all we will be the says I to myself all we will be says I to my says I to my says I we will be says I to my says I t didn't feel it. So, says I to myself, 'I've got a hard head and no mistake.' After got a hard head and no mistake.' After that I used to butt anything. Once I broke a rib on the inside of a side of beef by butting it on the outside, and there's lots of the boys that see me butt an iron post up Fifteenth and Railroad avenues, San Francisco.."

He then proceeded to tell about an experience he had once upon a time in a sheep corral, owned by a man named Lawrence, in which were three big bucks—holy terrors. He had a hard light with these big brutes, but claims upon all his honor to have butted the whole of them to a standstill. whole of them to a standstill But did you ever butt a man?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, I've butted 'niggers," was the reply. "One night, up in Pete Dorsey's, at 'Frisco, there was a big, buck nigger talkin' about buttin', an' i chipped in. "Who is you!" asked the coon. 'I'm nobody but Jones, the Englishman, 'says l. 'Kin you butt' asked the coon. 'A little, says l. 'Well how. glishman,' says l. 'Kin you butt!' asked the coon. 'A little, says l.' 'Well, how would you like to butt this?' takin' of his hat. 'Get ready,' says l, takin' of mine. Well, l just went for him, and knecked him right on the floor. Whenhe got up he says to me: 'Well, you is a butter, sho nuff, but did you hit me as hard as you could!' and, for a fact, l hadn't hit him hard at all. After that I made up my mind that I could butt any nigger in the world, and I tell you l've had some pretty hard knocks with men and animals since that time. But I want to make a match now to butt anybody, white or black, for a time. But I want to make a match now to but anybody, white or black, for a good purse, and the sooner man and money come up the better I'll like it. As the sailor says, I'm 'sorter stranded' just now, and I would like to do a little headwork in order to make a raise. All these millionaires have to do great headwork to add to their immense fortunes, but of course my headwork is a tunes, but of course my headwork is a a little different from theirs, but it brings the cash just the same."

This human prodigy has, for the past week or more, been working as roustabout for one of Santa Ana's contractors and bullders, who has had charge of the improvements just made in the Dibble Block. He believes himself to be champion of the world, and, as there is no one in Santa Ana who cares to change his belief by actual demonstration, he is allowed to give himself the honor.

Horses in spectacles.

[London Telegraph.]

Horsos, it appears, are taking kindly to spectacles. The Optician, which has made special investigation into the subject, gives the case of a short-sighted horse whose owner ordered for him a pair of spectacles. They were made to fasten firmly into the head stall, so that they could not be shaken out of place. At first the animal appeared startled by this addition to his harness, but he soon got used to his glasses and liked them so much that when he was turned out to pasture he felt uneasy and uncomfortable without his goggles, and one Sunday hung around the barn and whinnied so plaintively that the owner put the head-stall and goggles on him, and the horse was so glad that he rubbed the man's shoulder with his nose as the only method of returning thanks. Dogs who suffer from shortsightedness have also been provided with spectacles, and have been able thereby to recognize their canine acquaintances much further off than before. If the system is not carried much further no great harm will be done, but suppose "uppish" horses and dogs insist on discarding goggles for the pince neg or even the monocle. Pupples in eyeslasses would be intolerable.

ARE YOU GOING AWAY?

Whether You are or Not You Need to Know

Whether You are or Not You Need to Know Just What to Do, Both at Home and While Away.

Nearly everybody is planning to do more or less traveling at this season. Many people who can afford it go to Europe and spend a great deal of time abroad. Today you meet a man in Boston, and next week you encounter him in San Francisco. Those who have not the time or means to take these extended trips go to some summer resort, or take a little trip occasionally. This is right and proper. We need change; but all this running about causes treah risks to health and He, although the traveling may be taken for health and pleasure. Exposure, change of climate and habits, change of water and diet, loss of sleep, and all these things make people sick at very inconvenient times and in unexpected places. People, with sick of trumstances, are often seized which frequent plaints are awakened which frequent plaints are awakened which frequent take a fresh hold and often result in serious sickness or death. At such times illness may often be warded off by the prompt use of some good medicinal stimulant. There is no stimulant—equal to pure whisky, and the purest medicinal whisky upon the market today is Duffy's Pure Mait. It has been before the public for years, it may be jossible that some interested person may say that other whiskies are just as good. But it should be borne in what Duffy's Pure Mait, it has been before the public for the past twenty years has accomplished for the past twenty years.

CONCERNING DECIDUOUS PRUITS.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the Manufactures Committee of the Board of Trade will meet at the Board of Trade roo factures Committee of the Board of Trade will meet at the Board of Trade rooms to investigate for early report upon the practibility of endorsing the canning project which is descended from the business founded by the Pasadena Packing Company. All parties interested in the topic of fruit preparation for market are invited to meet with the committee.

As was suggested at the last Board of Trade meeting, this matter more generally and more closely concerns Pasadena people than may at first be realized. It was at the recent meeting also authoritively stated that a good demand has already been created for the goods that can be successfully packed here, and that an enviable reputation for them had been established in the Eastern markets.

Now, a practical question confronts the local fruit-growers. It is this: Will they elect to take pot-luck on the market to be determined by outside influences and conditions, or will they bestir themselves to mold conditions toward creating an independent and self-reliant position? The nearer home that deciduous fruits can be put fiftio keeping and marketable condition the betters for them and the better, returns for the producer. This proposition is too self-evident to require discussion. Again, the more perishable the product the wider margin must be allowed for the risks it involves in the handling. Wherefore the conclusions: First, that the constantly and rapidly increasing output from the orchards in the Pasadena district emphasizes conclusions: First, that the constantly and rapidly increasing output from the orchards in the Pasadena district emphasizes the advantages to follow home packing, and further that to reap the full benefits from the final value of the crop the producer should share in the profits arising between his possession of it and its consumption in the finished state, which means cooperative packing. cooperative packing.

What may be the attitude of the fruitgrowers hereabouts touching the lines sug-gested is one of the questions with whose determination the committee's report will have to do. For its information the com-mittee necessarily looks to the interested parties themselves.

"I remember." said a prominent Pasa-denian, whose villa is one of the present attractions of the place, "when both Pasadena and its surrounding country were very different from what they are now, and very different from what they are now, and it was not many years ago, either. Town and country have changed more than the dispositions of some men. It was not many years ago that I first came to Pasadena, looking for work. One might at that time, on a clear winter morning, stand on what is now the Carleton steps, and see the surf break on Long Beach. It looks impossible now, on account of buildings and trees, but both have sprung up within a few, short years.

now, on account of buildings and trees, but both have sprung up within a few, short years.

"I also remember that about the first people I met with here were a few laborers, lying in the shade and swearing vociferously at another new-comer (who now lives comfortably from his rent-roll, bythe-way) because he had accepted work at $1.50 per day. The swearing crowd would rot before they would work as cheap as that, so they said. I know I felt reassured at finding a place where $1.50 a day was considered too little. I was hunting a job myself, and found it, though it must have been about the time prices dropped, for I worked six months at $1.25 per day, and saved something out of it, too.

"Another curious thing about it all," he added, "is that the men who would not work for $1.50 a day then are still doing day jobs for that or less now, while many another, who looked at work first and the consideration afterward, and who started with nothing, is now, boom or no boom, doing the hiring and paying, while those same kickers are glad to do the work at what it is worth."

POMONA.

Big Sale of Apricots to Ontario Buyers—
News and Personal Notes.

About four hundred tons of apricots belonging to organized growers in this valley have been sold to the Faucet Fruit Company of North Ontario. The growers are,
for some reason, very guarded about the matter, and neither the price nor any of the particulars are made public. It is the opinion of prominent buyers of the place that the fruit brought about $23 per ton.
While the business men will rejoice to know that the growers have done this well, they will be sorry to learn that the cutting, drying and other work will be done at North Ontario, and a very large sum of money that would otherwise have come into the pockets of Pomona laborers and business men will now go to Ontario. Nobody blames the organization for selling, if they got better prices, but it means that Pomona is knocked out of several thousand dollars in clear cash all the same. The local buyers as y there are yet lenty of and to ollars in clear cash all the same.

cots in the valley to keep them busy all the season.

The fact that this crop has sold at good prices shows that the deciduous fruit-growers have good prospects ahead, and they may get double the above price before the season is over.

SOLID BANKS.

Pomena has three banks, and they are all as solid as the Rock of Gibraltar. Every director and stockholder is personally known to the people of the valley, and they are men in whom the utmost confidence is placed. The banks of this city do a strictly straight banking business, and there is no city on the coast that is better fixed for banks than Pomona. The failure of the San Bernardino and Riverside banks, naturally start people to talking about our own solid institutions, and not one expression is heard but that the People's, the sion is heard but that the People's, the First National and the National Bank of Pomona are here to stay.

POMONA BREVITIES.

Fomona are nere to stay.

FOMONA BREVITES.

Sunday was strongly suggestive of the beach, and quite a number of Pomona people spent the day at Santa Monica.

The anniversary of the founding of the Independent Order of Foresters was celebrated in Pomona yesterday. Rev. F. M. Dowling of the Christian Church preached the anniversary sermon. Pomona court attended in a body, as did also the Foresters from Ontario and Chino. The address of Rev. Dowling was very appropriate, and was thoroughly enjoyed.

The glorious Fourth will very probably not be celebrated in Pomona this year. The business men seem inclined to go to the Angel City and join in or witness the exercises there. Last year the city had a good celebration, but this year no one seems to take hold of the affair.

S. M. Haskell and wife are expected home from their Eastern trip next Saturday or Sunday.

S. M. Haskell and wife are expected home from their Eastern trip next Saturday or Sunday.

The Pomona Wine Company shipped its last carload of wine last Friday. The immense puncheons will be shipped to San Francisco. The large amount of capital the company had invested did not pay sumiciently well, and the stockholders have other large interests to which they are compelled to give a great deal of time. Miranda's winery is now the only one in the city.

The City Council will hold another meeting tomorrow evening, and the matter of the new railroad is about all the business there is to come before it. Some of the newspapers of Southern California are of the opinion that the road from Chino to Pomona will be about all the company will build for the present, and in support of this theory say that the new road would only lessen the time to Riverside (from Los Angeles) about ten minutes. The facts seem to be that in building the new line from Riverside through Pomona to Monrovia and Los Angeles, the company will run through the richest portions and the best towns of Southern California. Outside of the fact that the road would have a figure "8" that would in itself draw lots of travel, Riverside, with its oranges; Chino, with its sugar factory and beet fields: South Riverside, with its growing importance: Pomona, with its citrus and deciduous fruits, and Pasadena, with its wealth and beauty, would all be on the main line, and furnish new beauties to tourists and hew business to the Southern Pacific. By all means let the new road-come.

In these times of financial panic and runs on banks the citizens of Ontario are pursuing the even tenor of their ways, and our bank deposits are increasing instead of diminishing. That is a good indication of the confidence our people have in the solid financial character and good management of both our local banks.

The apricot crop here will be fully three weeks later than usual. Work will not be begun at the cannery before the middle of July.

A most interesting exhibit of school work

A most interesting exhibit of school work was made at the central building Friday. The south Yoom was cleared of seats and tables were allotted to each school. The modeling, language, arithmetic and history exhibits were of special interest, and the drawing made a very attractive feature. Such displays as this give a much better idea of the work actually done in the schools than the ordinary exhibition with a programme of music and recitations.

There is a lumber war on just now, and prices have dropped about 30 per cent. The lumber business is now a losing one, the dealers claiming that they are out about 12 to 15 per cent on sales. But it will no doubt give an impetus to building. The lawyers of Riverside are of the opinion that this county should take advantage of the law of 1891, permitting a fee to be charged upon the filing of cases in the Superior Court, the revenue thus obtained to be used in the establishment of a law library.

A Woman Resorts to Swindling to Gratify Her Mania.

and Pawned Them to Obtain Funds to Buy Tickets-Goodman's

Police Officer Goodman, who for some time past has been detailed on detecwork, has just closed up another clever piece of work. Some six weeks or two months ago, a Mrs. Augusta Weiler; who lived on Wall street, between Sixth and Seventh, commenced a systematic course of swindling, with quite profitable results. The woman's plan was to purchase articles on the installment plan, and, as soon as delivered, promptly pawning them for what she could get. Being of good address, and apparently respectable, she was very successful. Among other things secured four sewing-machines, sev eral sets of silver knives and forks, two eral sets of silver knives and forks, two or three pairs of chenille portieres, half a dozen pairs of lace curtains, a good watch—and a diamond ring, all of which she pawned at various places, and secured quite a sum of money. Not satisfied with swindling outsiders, she got possession of her husband's and son's watches, which she husband's and son's watches, which she also pawned. She might have contin-ued her career indefinitely, but, on failing to make her payments on one of the sewing machines, the agent became suspicious, and, when he finally cor-nered the woman, she made some excuse to get out of the house, and finally esto get out of the house, and maily escaped. A complaint was then sworn out against her, and, after considerable delay, Goodman was put on the case. The officer soon discovered that she had left the city, going to Arizona, where she probably now is, and he then went she probably now is, and he then went to work to recover the stolen property, finally locating every piece, which has been returned to the owners, thereby saving them some $400.

But this is not all. In the course of his investigations the officer discovered that the woman had a record that reads almost like a remance. Some eight that the woman had a record that reads almost like a romance. Some eight years ago she was living with her husband at Sioux City, lowa, when she robbed him of $1500 and eloped with Weiler, going to Chicago. Here she had some, trouble, and went to St. Louis, from there to Omaha, then to Portland and Seattle. From Seattle she went to San Francisco, where she remained until last February, when she came to Los Angeles. Here, strange to say, she found her first husband—whom she deserted in Sioux City eight years before—married again, with an interesting family.

So far as known, Weiler knew nothing of what his wife was doing. He supposed that she was putting away money, as she told him she was, and he never suspected anything until her sudmoney, as since total time since was, and he never suspected anything until her sudden departure opened his eyes. The officer further discovered that Mrs. Weiler was a monomaniac on the subject of lotteries, and all the money she could get her hands on was specified. ject of lotteries, and all the money she could get her hands on was spent in buying tickets in the local Chinese lotteries and in patronizing the Louisiana and other big concerns. It is altogether a very queer story, and the authorities all over the Coast have been notified to keep a lookout "for the woman, whose picture is by this time in every rogues' gallery in the country.

The Injunction Suit to Come Before Judge Wade Today.
The case of William Ferguson vs the City of Los Angeles comes up today in Judge Wade's department of the Superior Court. This is the action brought in behalf of the City Water Company to secure an order restrain-ing the municipal officials from issuing the bonds recently voted for the purpose of establishing a system of waterworks to be owned and controlled directly by the city. The usual temporary restraining order was made at the time of the filing of the complaint, and the result of the suit will determine whether or not the injunction shall be deckared perpetual, and at the same time settle the somewhat mooted question as to the actual validity of the issuance of that particular variety of bonds voted. the bonds recently voted for the pur

June Joggings!

As the month draws to a close we redouble our efforts to make the sales the largest in the history of our business. Commencing Monday we will close out a number of lines of wares which will prove of great service to you. The quality and styles of the goods which we will place on sale are of the best, and the prices will be far below any that have ever been quoted before. All we ask is for you to look this list over carefully and note the price, then come in and visit us. The buying part we leave en-. ? tirely to you.

Dress Goods and Silk Joggings.

This is one of the departments which we have decided to close out a number of the lines at less than cost.

Choney Bros.' and others Printed Silks, 50c a yard. Every one knows what these goods are; we always considered them the best line of silks made. We have about 50 pieces, all of which are splendid styles. This is an opportunity never offered before, and you certainly ought to miss it; every yard is worth $1. of the lines at less than cost.

certainly ought to miss it; every yard is worth $1.

Silk-striped Camelette Suitings, 50c a yard. It is really a pity to slaughter these goods they are so handsome; they are all silk and wool, 42 inches wide, and cost more money to manufacture than we are offering them at; the colorings are the very best and there is not a poor piece in the lot.

All-wool Imported Challies, 49c.
Who ever heard of such a thing before; No one but us could do it; we have taken our entire line and placed this price on them; one pattern is handsomer than the other, being the handsomest goods ever shown in this city; it will be strange if there is a yard left by night; the regular price is 75.

Embroidered Dress Patterns, $7.00.

The price of these have been from $14

Embroidered Dress Patterns, $7.00. The price of these have been from $14 to $18 a pattern, but we wish to close them out and have marked them much less than cost in order to sell them quick; they are very handsome and cost us all the from $11 to $14 each. Self-figured novelties, 75c a yard. There has been no handsomer goods shown this season than these; they are all wool, 40 inches wide and come in both light and dark and a splendid weight; can be worn all summer without the slightest inconveniences; not a yard is worth one cent less than $1.25.

Novelty Black Suitings, 75c each. We have a few pieces of these elegant goods which we have decided to close out. The designs are all very handsome and are the very latest French productions, which we sold at $1.25 each. Ladies' Shirt Waist Joggings.

The time for these goods has now arrived, and even at the height of the season we are going to close out a number of lines, all of which are very very handsome and just the thing for this season.
